

Redonda G. Miller, M.D., M.B.A.

Dr. Redonda Miller is president of The Johns Hopkins Hospital, a 1,162-bed academic medical center with more than 11,000 employees, $2.8 billion in operating revenue, and a dual mission of innovation and community care. Since her appointment in 2016, Dr. Miller has advanced the hospital's focus on providing exceptional clinical care; enhancing quality, safety and the patient experience; exceeding financial targets, and improving health equity and outcomes for residents in Baltimore City.

During Dr. Miller's tenure, The Johns Hopkins Hospital has been consistently recognized for clinical excellence, maintaining its ranking among the top five hospitals in the nation on the U.S. News & World Report Honor Roll, earning its fourth consecutive Magnet designation for nursing excellence from the American Nurses Credentialing Center, and attaining an "A" grade for patient safety from The Leapfrog Group. In 2019, the hospital received gold certification for person-centered care from Planetree International, becoming the largest academic medical center in the world to be certified by the organization.

Dr. Miller arrived at Johns Hopkins as a medical student in 1988. She joined the medical faculty in 1997 and was appointed associate professor in the Department of Medicine in 2006. She earned a master's degree in business administration from The Johns Hopkins University in 2004. Since then, she has served in several administrative roles of increasing responsibility, including vice chair of clinical operations for the Department of Medicine, vice president of medical affairs for The Johns Hopkins Hospital, and senior vice president of medical affairs for the Johns Hopkins Health System.

A practicing internist, Dr. Miller continues to see patients, and her firsthand experience helps inform the decisions she makes to ensure that patients receive the highest quality care and that providers and staff members are supported in their work.

Dr. Miller is active in several community and professional organizations, and currently serves on the boards of Turnaround Tuesday, Visit Baltimore, and Gilchrist. In 2020, she was inducted into both the National Academy of Medicine and the Maryland Chamber of Commerce Business Hall of Fame. Additional recognition includes being named one of the top 25 women leaders in health care in 2019 by Modern Healthcare magazine and among 100 great leaders in health care by Becker's Hospital Review.